

St. Paul's School
MANIBUS POTENTIA STUDIUM ANIMIS

Nominations for PTA Committee 2016-2017

PP1

TEST – this document isn't ready yet.

St. Paul's School

MANIBUS POTENTIA STUDIUM ANIMIS

Nominations for PTA Committee 2016-2017

PP2

Victoria Ramalho
Schwarz

An architect and mother of two boys, Victoria Ramalho Schwarz is also an Old Paulean who graduated in 2001 having joined the school at age 3. As a student, the school occupied a place in her life that went well beyond lessons, fostering a sense of community and social engagement that she treasures to this day, and which as a parent and member of the PTA, she hopes to nurture and further develop. Another aspect of the school, and indeed of a British education, which she finds attractive is its continuity and traditions. While at St. Paul's she enjoyed taking part in school plays, sports, and the charity committee, and is happy to see that many of these activities are held in much the same form today. Victoria wants her children to walk away from the school with the same warm feelings of belonging that she still has towards St. Paul's, and wants to contribute to the ongoing improvement of the school through the safekeeping of its traditions, not in spite of them.

St. Paul's School
MANIBUS POTENTIA STUDIUM ANIMIS

Nominations for PTA Committee 2016-2017

Prep 5

Ana Carolina
Renaux Hering

My name is Ana Carolina Renaux Hering, and I am from Santa Catarina , Brazil. I studied Fashion Design at FIT, New York City, had some work experience in the field here in Brazil, and then went to live abroad for many years. I moved to the UK, to Newmarket, for 3 years, and there became a first time mother, which was quite an experience, very different from living in the USA. I then moved to Berlin where I stayed for 7 years. In Berlin my son Oliver McDonald, who graduated last year from St. Paul's and is now in Durham University, started his British education. I have been a St. Paul's mother for 10 years now, with many experiences in the school in all this time, and am very happy with the school and the education provided by it. My wish is to participate more in school life to make it even a better place for our children, and I believe that communications between parents and school is a key point in this work. I would be very happy if I could contribute to the parents' life in school by sharing our experiences with the PTA.

My name is Carolina Mariutti Dutra de Almeida and I have been a "St. Paul's mother" for 7 years. My daughters are currently in P4 and P1.

Over the past years I have often helped the PTA in the events it organizes as a volunteer but I would now like to be a full member of the PTA, hoping to contribute more effectively, being part of the meetings and trying to help other parents with their issues. I work independently as an architect so I am able to adapt my time in order to participate properly in PTA commitments.

Carolina Mariutti